

An Important Message from Jennifer Toth, Deputy Director of Transportation

Sign the 2014 Driving Safety Home Pledge!

February is about celebrating Valentine's Day, marking our statehood and, here at ADOT, pledging to keep transportation safety top-of-mind.

This month, I'm asking employees to sign the 2014 Driving Safety Home Pledge. Please join me once again in committing to making transportation safety a priority no matter which mode of transportation you use. You might recall that in 2013 roughly 60 percent of the ADOT workforce signed the pledge. As remarkable as that is, I hope we can move the needle to an even higher percentage of ADOT participants this year.

It's easy: Print the pledge, sign it and post it where you'll see it every day.

Managers and supervisors, as new employees join your teams this year, please tell them about the pledge. The monthly Driving Safety Home campaign is now on the ADOT website, which includes and archive of monthly messages, the pledge and other transportation-safety resources.

It's worth repeating that none of us can be reminded too often about the importance of protecting our own lives, the lives of our loved ones and others. Most fatal- and serious-injury crashes are totally preventable. Simply remembering to make smart choices such as slowing down, buckling up or waiting to send that text message, makes an important difference.

Thank you,
